Projects

ComFlix | Website | GitHub

- The movie search website that I built using JavaScript, CSS, and HTML is a user-friendly platform that allows users to search for their favorite movies and TV shows. The website is powered by the IMDb API, which provides access to a vast database of movies and TV shows.

Library | Website | GitHub

- Library is a modern online platform designed for book lovers. The website is built using React, JavaScript, CSS, and HTML best practices, ensuring a highly responsive and user-friendly experience. The homepage showcases various book genres, bestsellers, and new releases, making it easy for users to discover books.The website includes a shopping cart where users can add books to their cart

Personal Portfolio | Website | GitHub

- My portfolio is a sleek and modern platform that showcases my work in web development. The website is built using JavaScript, CSS, and HTML, providing a seamless and interactive user experience. Visitors can easily navigate through my projects and view details such as my skills, work experience, and education. The website's minimalist design is aimed at highlighting my work and making it easier for visitors to find what they are looking for. With its responsive design and intuitive interface, my portfolio website is a great representation of my skills and creativity as a web developer.
